| APPEARANCE     | Clear, pale green.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                          |                                                                                                                     |
| NOSE           | A complex, elegant and powerful nose which reveals layers of aromas. Notable for its minerality resulting from calcareous soils, together with gentle notes of green chilli pepper and herbs.                                                             |                          |                                                                                                                     |
| PALATE         | This refreshing and full-bodied wine has a structured palate and crisp acidity, which provide tension and power. A persistent and clean finish, in which an intense salinity adds complexity to the intermingling notes of stone, citrus fruit and herbs. |                          |                                                                                                                     |
| AGEING         | After fermentation, the wine was aged over its lees for 8 months.                                                                                                                                                                                         |                          |                                                                                                                     |
| PAIRING        | This mineral wine pairs well with oysters, sea urchins and fresh shellfish. It is also excellent with ceviche, fish and white meat.                                                                                                                       |                          |                                                                                                                     |
